

DUBLIN'S LORD MAYOR SHIPS BRITISH ADMIRAL

Won't Receive Lord Charles Beresford at the Mansion House or Attend the Regatta Which Was Arranged to Greet the English Fleet.

Tragic Drowning Accident on Lough Neagh, in Which Heroic Young Men Sacrifice Themselves to Save the Lives of Women Companions.

(Special Correspondence of The Evening World.)

DUBLIN, Ireland, Aug. 27.—The Channel Fleet, under the command of Lord Charles Beresford, visited Cork last week and was officially welcomed by the Lord Mayor of that city. Thence it proceeded to Dublin, the commander apprising the Lord Mayor of the metropolis of his coming. The Lord Mayor of Dublin, however, declined to welcome the fleet or invite its officers to the Mansion House, and furthermore declined the invitation of Lord Charles Beresford to attend the regatta in Kingston Harbor organized in connection with it.

The Loyalists are much incensed over the action of the Lord Mayor (the Right Hon. Joseph Hutchinson), which is in striking contrast to the action of his predecessor, Mr. Timothy Harrington, M. P., who last year welcomed the fleet and received the officers in the Mansion House. It is needless to say the Nationalists of the metropolis are highly delighted, and his Lordship was cheered enthusiastically last night as he drove to the Mansion House after attending a lecture.

Bishop Declines Testimonial.

The new Bishop of Kerry, Dr. Mann, who only learned of his elevation to the hierarchy a few days ago on his return from America, is genuinely popular in Kerry, owing to the sturdy fight he made there as a curate against landlordism. He has not diminished that popularity by his latest action, which is to decline accepting a testimonial it was proposed to make for him. His Lordship very plainly stated that Kerry was poor enough to need its money for itself, and he needed no testimonial to convince him of the goodwill and respect of his people.

Bad Boating Accident.

A very sad boating accident occurred this week at Lough Neagh, by which six lives were lost. Mr. Frank Green, of Dublin, son of Mr. William Green, of Kenmare, Lurgan, coal merchant, together with his sister, Winifred and Dorothy; his cousins, Hugh and Frank Green, of Belfast, sons of Mr. Isaac Green, merchant, of Belfast, and two young men named Catchpole, of Jersey, went out sailing on the Lough on Tuesday evening. Some miles from shore a squall struck the boat, and all the occupants were thrown into the water. All were swimmers, and the men acted heroically. They first placed the women on the keel of the boat, and then, partly swimming and partly holding on, endeavored to guide it through the cold, dark night across the rough waters of the Lough to shore, but one by one they succumbed and sunk to rise no more. The last survivor of the men, Frank Green, bidding his sisters to keep up their hearts, drew away from the boat and made a futile attempt to swim to the distant shore—miles away—in order to get assistance. He failed, and perished. Meanwhile the boat drifted toward the shore, and despite the efforts of his brave sister, Dorothy Green, succumbed and was drowned. The last survivor from the boat, the last survivor from the keel of the boat into the water, but, making a last desperate effort, succeeded in swimming to the shore, where she fainted, but was discovered by a cottager and conveyed to his house. She now lies ill at the home of her stricken parents.

The body of only one of the six drowned persons has been recovered. The story is agonizing in its pathos, but it is relieved by the gallantry of the young men, whose manly and chivalrous action in sacrificing any chance of saving their own lives in order to save the lives of their women companions is everywhere eulogized.

The Feteanna or gatherings of the Gaelic League have been as numerous this week as last. The chief of them was the Munster Fete, held in Killarney during the first three days of the week. It was representative of the six counties of Munster—Cork, Kerry, Clare, Tipperary, Limerick and Waterford. The entries in the competitions were extremely large and the greater portion of the proceedings was conducted in the Irish language.

Next to the Munster Fete at Killarney, in Mayo, was the most important. It was opened by Dr. Douglas Hyde and addresses were delivered by the Bishop of Achoury and Senor Balbin, of Buenos Ayres.

Home Show Dying Away. In Dublin this week there has been a series of Irish concerts in the rotunda by Mr. William Ludwig and an Irish musical exhibition is being held in the Ancient Concert room.

This is the week of the Royal Dublin Society's horse show, and the class of visitors it attracts to Dublin are not those in active sympathy, at least with what is known as Irish-Ireland. This year there has been a great falling off in entries, and the number of visitors is the lowest recorded for ten years. It is evident that the popularity of the show is considerably on the wane, and few in Dublin, outside the society circle, the car drivers and the hotel-keepers, regret the fact. The Royal Dublin Society was founded to promote and encourage Irish industries and Irish tillage farming in the past, and it has since been gradually and tactically absorbed these functions and devoted the money placed at its disposal to the encouragement of horse and cattle breeding. This year it sent the bills advertising the horse show to England to be printed, a fact which has excited bitter comment among the manufacturers and workmen of the metropolis, who point out that the society, instead of benefiting the country, has degenerated into a mere social machine.

ELECTION BOARD ACCUSED OF FRAUD

Four Members, Charged with Stuffing Ballot-Boxes at Primary, Declare the Accusation Absurd—Paroled Till Tuesday

Upon the complaint of Peter K. Henry, of No. 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street, a lieutenant of Percy Magie, that he had stuffed ballot boxes at the primary election on Tuesday night four members of the Board of Election of the Thirtieth and Fourteenth Election Districts of the Thirty-fourth Assembly District were arraigned in the Harlem Court to-day.

The prisoners were Charles P. Riley, of No. 34 East One Hundred and Twenty-third street; John Donnelly, of No. 6 East One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street; Robert A. Schroeder, of No. 105 East One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street, and John B. Schaeffer, of No. 321 East One Hundred and Twentieth street.

The complaint was not in court to press the charge. In his complaining affidavit, however, he stated that the four prisoners had been seen to stuff fifteen ballots in the ballot-boxes after the polls were closed. He said he could summon a number of witnesses to testify to this fact.

The four men said the charges were absurd and asked for an adjournment. The case was thereupon put over until Tuesday and all of the prisoners were paroled in the custody of their counsel.

STATE REPUBLICANS MAKING UP A SLATE

Gov. Odell and Other Party Leaders Meet at the Country Home of National Committee-man Wood, on Shelter Island.

(Special to The Evening World.) MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Sept. 2.—National Committee-man W. L. Ward retained several prominent Republicans at a clam-bake this afternoon at his country seat on Shelter Island, and though it was given out that it was simply a "friendly gathering," yet it is reported that the State ticket slate was fixed up.

Among Mr. Ward's guests were Gov. Odell and Frank J. Black. The island was selected for the conference because it is isolated, and the "leaders" were away from the gaze of the curious.

It is said that Gov. Odell intends to stand by Frank W. Higgins, of Cattaraugus, for Governor, although several State Committeemen are backing Timothy Woodruff for the nomination.

Mr. Ward told a friend that the question of the gubernatorial nominee is still undecided and that it will be on open fight in the convention. The clam-bake was an elaborate one.

MAYOR McCLELLAN TO GO ON STUMP

Accepts Invitation of National Democratic Committee to Speak for Judge Parker Early in the Campaign.

Daniel McConville, who has charge of the campaign speakers and campaign oratory for the National Democratic Committee, announced to-day that Mayor George B. McClellan would go on the stump for Judge Parker early in the campaign. In response to an invitation from the National Committee the Mayor said:

"I shall take great pleasure in assisting the committee in any way it sees fit, and if my services are desired I shall gladly respond." Mayor McClellan will be asked to speak at some important out of town meetings should the duties of his official position permit.

Another of the campaign speakers will be former Gov. James Campbell, of Ohio. He bears a reputation of being a ready speaker, persuasive and convincing. One of his Ohio campaigns was noted for the brilliancy with which he stumped the State and got votes as the words fell from his lips.

With ex-Gov. Campbell was Judge Burnett, of Ohio. During the visit to the committee headquarters to-day Mr. Campbell is not to be a fight of personalities, as the surface seems to show, but one in which the ultimate destinies of the nation and republic are at issue.

They are looking for William Randolph Hearst at National Headquarters. They want Mr. Hearst to turn loose his chain of papers in the shout for Parker and show that he is out heart and soul for the Democratic nominee.

Hearst's political manager had an interview with Messrs. Taggart and Sheehan, following which a telegram was sent to Hearst somewhere in British Columbia, where it is thought he might be.

It is generally believed at headquarters that Hearst has changed his quondam Presidential bid to a gubernatorial one, which he would like to see being a nomination shown in November.

HARRIMAN'S CLAIM DENIED IN ANSWER

Northern Securities in Return in Injunction Suit Says the Transfer of Northern Pacific Stock Was Absolute.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 3.—The Northern Securities Company to-day filed in the United States Circuit Court its formal answer in the suit instituted by Edward H. Harriman, Winslow S. Pierce, the Oregon Short Line Co., and the Equitable Trust Company of New York, to restrain the Northern Securities Company from carrying out its proposed plan of distribution of its assets.

This is the first formal answer filed by the Northern Securities Company either to the original bill of complaint of Harriman and Pierce or to the first and second amendments thereto.

The preliminary injunction granted by Judge Bradford restraining the Northern Securities Company from disposing of certain shares of the Northern Pacific Company was granted upon motion and argument in open court and without the filing of any formal answer: to the original bill.

For Final Hearing. The filing of the answer would seem to indicate that the case is to go before Judge Bradford for a final hearing, notwithstanding the fact that an appeal has been taken to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals from Judge Bradford's opinion in granting a preliminary injunction.

The answer filed to-day is largely a formal presentation of the points that were made before Judge Bradford on the argument on motion for a preliminary injunction.

The answer admits that on Nov. 15, 1901, Harriman and Pierce owned preferred stock to the value of $41,000,000 and common stock to the value of $37,000,000, but avers that on the same day Harriman and Pierce transferred this stock to the Northern Securities Company, receiving therefor $3,915,829 in cash and $21,491,871 in stock of the Securities Company.

It is further averred that this transfer was absolute and unconditional, and that there never has been any understanding or agreement expressed or implied as to how long such preferred or common stock should be retained or managed by the Northern Securities Company.

Not a Trustee. It is also stated that under a resolution of the Board of Directors of the Northern Pacific Company the preferred stock of that company was returned on Nov. 11, 1901, and that since Jan. 1, 1902, such preferred stock of the Northern Pacific Company had ceased to exist.

It is denied that the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States was to the effect that the stock of the Northern Pacific Company acquired by the Northern Securities Company is held by the latter as trustee.

SUIT FOR $10,000 BY DEBT PRISONER

Blacksmith, to Test Power of City Court to Lock Up Debtors on Technicalities, Sues Judge O'Dwyer.

John Sweeney, a blacksmith, of No. 24 West Eighteenth street, taking Sheriff Erlanger's tip, is going to test the power of the courts to send a debtor to jail on technicalities by a suit for $10,000 damages for false imprisonment against Chief Judge Edward F. O'Dwyer of the City Court, who twice sent him to Ludlow Street Jail for contempt of court. The papers were filed in the Supreme Court to-day.

Nothing to Pay With. Sweeney was sued by two creditors, who got small judgments against him. The judgments were never paid, because Sweeney had nothing to pay with, and the blacksmith shop is owned by his wife.

To collect the judgments a receiver was appointed to take charge of the shop. But Sweeney refused to turn it over to the receiver, on the ground that it was his wife's shop.

For this he was haled before Judge O'Dwyer and declared in contempt. The first time he was sentenced to pay $250 fine or to Ludlow Street Jail for twenty-three days; the second time it was for fifteen days. But on both occasions Supreme Court Justices released Sweeney by order before he reached the jail, and paroled him in the custody of his lawyer, Richard Krause.

Really Imprisonment for Debt. Sheriff Erlanger has called attention to the fact that, although imprisonment for debt has been abolished by law, there are always more than a score of prisoners in Ludlow Street Jail whose only offense is apparently their inability to pay a judgment debt.

The commitment in each case being upon some such technicality as that upon which Blacksmith Sweeney was sent to jail.

BODY IN HARLEM RIVER.

Police Pick Up Unknown Man off Dykeman Street.

The body of a man was recovered to-day by the police of the West One Hundred and Fifty-second Street Station, off Dykeman street. The man was evidently about fifty-five years old, five feet eight inches high, 150 pounds in weight, and a smooth face and was bald. The clothing consisted of a dark coat and trousers, red striped shirt, black socks and low-cut shoes.

There were no means of identification.

HIT BY "L" TRAIN.

While at work on the elevated railroad structure at One Hundred and Second street and Third avenue to-day Alexander Hyman, twenty-seven years old, was struck by a north-bound train, receiving injuries to the head and body which necessitated his removal to the Harlem Hospital. He lives at No. 124 Third avenue.

ACTRESS FOUND HURT WAS SILENT

Feared to Let Husband Know She Had Been Injured, But Later Admitted Identity and Explained Her Plight.

After refusing to tell her name or give any information concerning herself a young woman patient in the City Hospital, Jersey City, to-day admitted in answer to inquiries by the doctors that she was Trellis Ward, an actress, and that she lived on Twenty-second street, Manhattan.

She was found early to-day lying near a track on the New Jersey Central, not far from the Meadowbrook station. She appeared to be suffering from severe injuries in her side, and said she had been in a railroad wreck.

The young woman was put aboard a train and taken to the City Hospital. She was silent to every question, but was recognized as a patient who had received treatment at the hospital a year ago, and her name was obtained from the hospital records.

Later she became more communicative and explained her residence by saying she did not want her husband to know she had been injured. She added that she came from Philadelphia, yesterday.

In walking around some wreckage she slipped and fell. A freight train had been derailed at Meadowbrook, she said, necessitating a change of cars on the part of passengers on the Philadelphia train.

"A Toothsome Flavor."

True for you, there's a treat in the crisp, nutty, delicate, sweet taste of Grape-Nuts served with thick, rich cream.

(Don't spoil the food by trying to cook it. The work is done and perfectly done at the factories.)

The cream should soften it a bit, but not enough to excuse the eater from at least a few good, earnest "chews," for old Dame Nature sends rich blessings to the long chewer. Of course, the one with weak teeth can soften the food with milk down to a mush if necessary, but the good old Dame doesn't smile quite so cheerfully on them.

You know, children and adults must use the teeth and grind freely to make them grow strong and to preserve them. Then the act of chewing brings down the much needed saliva from the gums, and that helps amazingly in the digestion the foods of various kinds.

The saliva is not so much required with Grape-Nuts, for this food is pre-digested—that is, the starch turned into a form of sugar in the process of making—and that helps give it the fascinating flavor.

Grape-Nuts people are healthy and enjoy good things. There's a reason.
